The Undergraduate Program Educational Objectives in Biomedical Engineering at the University of Arizona are that we produce graduates who:

- are effective engineers within biomedical related professions in industry, government, academia, or medicine.

- can develop and apply a broad and cross-disciplinary approach to problem solving.

- can communicate effectively, function in teams, and have developed a sense of social and ethical responsibility.

- continue to develop technical knowledge, awareness and leadership skills that will allow them to address biomedical problems.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Career Goal</th>
<th>Professional Skills</th>
<th>Socio Ethical Skills</th>
<th>Continuing Education</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

The first PEO have been approved by the BME faculty around 2014 and were revised in Fall 2016 to make them consistent with EAC of ABET.